

HansaWorld wins Accountancy Age Award

UK leading finance information title Accountancy Age chooses HansaWorld as mid-range software of the year 2006

According to the judges, HansaWorld's entry demonstrated technical innovation, included some impressive features and offered value for money: "Implementations were under budget and on time, and the product demonstrated wide functionality. HansaWorld Enterprise pushes the boundaries in terms of features available in a single, integrated accounting and business management package. A single application covers customer relationship management, web content management, email and other communication methods alongside the accounting functionality."

HansaWorld's Sales Director Stephen Jay explains that the annual Accountancy Age awards are an important event in the UK finance community: "As a provider of integrated business software, we value this recognition highly. Winning the Accountancy Age award shows that HansaWorld is on the right path, developing easy-to-use solutions that help our customers run their organisations more efficiently," he commented.
